

1. We are happy to announce that Danielle Wheeler's classroom at Cartmell Elementary will be a training site for the Kentucky Autism Training Center. Please congratulate Mrs. Rohrer and Ms. Wheeler for their hard work in applying for this support. The center provides professional development as well as parent education nights.
2. The CCHS special education department is planning a four-day summer camp for students June 4-7. This year students from Gallatin County High School will be joining us. On the agenda are trips to local businesses, a team building activity at General Butler, and visits to government agencies. The students will be learning about careers in the local restaurants as well. The final activity will be the teachers working with the students on self-advocacy and future planning.
3. The special education department will be sending six teachers to the Kentucky Behavior Institute. Each of these teachers will be taking strategies they learn back to share with their buildings.
4. Carroll County High School students recently made a trip to Whitney Young Job Corp program in Simpsonville, KY. They were accompanied by Michelle Goff the school's Job Coach, Barbara Hensley Special Education Teacher and Melissa Hann district attendance clerk. The program offers post-secondary educational opportunities for students. There is a variety of training programs available. We currently have one former Carroll County student enrolled and several students expressed an interest in attending next year.
